

Bring Them to Me

Dear Lord,

Though I have often read the miracle of the loaves and fishes, and am always impressed, today the words, “Bring them to me” stood out.

This is what our Lord said to the disciples when they told him that the only food they could find was five barley loaves and two small fishes. Even the apostles said, “But what are they among so many?” How could five barley loaves and two small fishes feed five thousand men, plus women and children?

Isn't that how we often feel when we are confronted with a seemingly impossible situation? Yes, if we remember our Lord's words, “Bring them to me.” He can solve it.

An excellent example of this was on the news. After the earthquake in Haiti, a devout Christian was pulled out from the debris that had collapsed on her. She had been pinned under the rubble for five days. She prayed constantly for all this time. Then, miraculously, she was saved. She had a dislocated hip and a broken leg, but she survived because she brought it all to our Lord in constant prayer, and He took care of her.

Help me, Lord, to remember to bring everything to you in prayer. You can take care of it.

Thank you, Lord.
